Introduction

- Our guests today are Annamarie Klose, Alisa Kraut and Weatherly Stephan! Annamarie is the Metadata Initiatives Librarian at The Ohio State University, Alisa is the Artifact Registrar of the Atwater Kent Collection at Drexel University, and Weatherly is the Head of Archival Collections Management at New York University.
- Thank you so much for joining us tonight alumni! I think we should start off by having each of you give us a brief overview of how you got from Rutgers to where you are today.

Discussion

- What did you learn in the M.I. program that helped you in your careers? Did you feel prepared for your first position after graduation?
- Are you a member of any professional organizations (such as the ALA, SAA, MARAC or the Academy of Certified Archivists)? If so, how have they helped you?

- I noticed that all three of you are currently working with university collections. How does working in an academic environment contrast with your prior experience in public libraries, museums, nonprofits and other non-collegiate settings?
- Is there any piece of advice you'd like to give to current M.I. students who are looking to work in an archive or library, particularly Archives & Preservation majors?

Elections

- If there are two or more candidates for one of the open SOURCE e-board positions (President, Vice President and Webmaster), an election will take place.

Announcements

- The Archivists Round Table of Metropolitan New York is hosting a virtual conversation with the New York Public Radio's Archives team on lessons they learned while processing audiovisual content from the Bob Sherman Collection. - The Library of Congress is now accepting applications for its Archives, History and Heritage Advanced Internship program. This is a part-time opportunity which runs from September 9th to November 15th, and applications are due by April 22nd.
